SECTION 1. Legislative declaration. (1) The general assembly hereby finds and declares that:

Capital letters or bold & italic numbers indicate new material added to existing law; dashes through words or numbers indicate deletions from existing law and such material is not part of the act.

(a) Over the last sixty years, Colorado families have conserved over three million three hundred thousand acres of working farms, ranches, and private lands across the state;

(b) Since 2000, Colorado has proactively invested in conservation through the conservation easement tax credit program;

(c) The conservation easement tax credit program incentivizes private landowners to voluntarily protect their properties, which creates public benefits to Colorado's lands, waters, wildlife, and people.

(d) The benefits of conservation are unique and wide-ranging. Conservation has contributed significantly to the protection of wildlife habitat, critical wetlands, urban open space, and working farms and ranches.

(e) The conservation easement tax credit program has aided Colorado in reducing its carbon emissions and accomplishing its biodiversity goals, while supporting rural economic resiliency, benefiting all Coloradans;

(f) In pursuit of greater equity in conservation, it is crucial to enhance programs that promote public benefits for all Coloradans; and

(g) Equity in conservation requires ongoing collaboration with private landowners, state and federal public land managers, and counties and municipalities. Underscoring and investing in the inclusion of underserved communities, tribes, and historically marginalized land interests will further amplify these efforts.

(2) Therefore, it is in the best interests of Coloradans to enhance the conservation easement tax credit program.
