Summary of Legislation

Before an executive board of a homeowners association (HOA) can initiate a construction defect lawsuit, this bill requires that the board first:

- notify all unit owners of the HOA and the builder(s) of the development of any plans to bring a construction defect lawsuit;
- convene a meeting for the board and the developer to present relevant facts and arguments to HOA unit owners; and
- obtain the approval of a majority of the unit owners.

The bill dictates various disclosures that must be included in the notification to HOA unit owners and construction professionals, and sets deadlines for the board to provide the notifications, convene a meeting, and collect votes for or against a construction defect lawsuit.

State Expenditures

The bill may result in a minimal workload reduction in the Judicial Branch. Prior to filing any lawsuit alleging construction defects, the bill requires that HOAs take steps to notify the unit owners and secure a majority vote of the owners before moving forward, potentially reducing the number of suits that are initiated in state courts.

Effective Date

The Governor signed the bill into law and it took effect on May 23, 2017. The act applies to construction defect actions where the cause of action accrued on or after this date.
