An Act

SENATE BILL 21-292

BY SENATOR(S) Winter and Rankin, Bridges, Buckner, Cooke, Danielson, Donovan, Fenberg, Fields, Gardner, Ginal, Gonzales, Holbert, Jaquez Lewis, Kirkmeyer, Kolker, Lee, Liston, Lundeen, Moreno, Pettersen, Priola, Rodriguez, Simpson, Smallwood, Story, Woodward, Garcia; also REPRESENTATIVE(S) Duran and Carver, Amabile, Bernett, Bird, Boesenecker, Caraveo, Cutter, Exum, Froelich, Gonzales-Gutierrez, Hooton, Jackson, Kipp, Lontine, McCluskie, McCormick, Michaelson Jenet, Mullica, Ricks, Roberts, Sirota, Sullivan, Valdez A., Weissman, Woodrow, Young, Garnett.

CONCERNING THE ALLOCATION OF FIFTEEN MILLION DOLLARS FROM THE ECONOMIC RELIEF AND RECOVERY CASH FUND UNDER THE FEDERAL "AMERICAN RESCUE PLAN ACT OF 2021" FOR PURPOSE OF FUNDING VICTIM'S SERVICES PROGRAMS TO ASSIST PERSONS DISPROPORTIONATELY IMPACTED BY THE COVID-19 PUBLIC HEALTH EMERGENCY, AND, IN CONNECTION THEREWITH, MAKING AN APPROPRIATION.

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Colorado:

SECTION 1. Legislative declaration. (1) The general assembly

Capital letters or bold & italic numbers indicate new material added to existing law; dashes through words or numbers indicate deletions from existing law and such material is not part of the act.

finds and declares that:

(a) Victims of crime face financial, medical, and logistical barriers to recovering from victimization. This recovery has become more difficult as a result of the COVID-19 public health emergency.

(b) A national review of research literature found that domestic violence incidents in the country increased by more than eight percent following the imposition of stay-at-home orders;

(c) Research suggests that social isolation is one of the most prominent tactics used by abusers to distance victims from the victims' support networks;

(d) Although the stay-at-home orders and general movement restrictions imposed by countries around the world are slowing the infection rate of COVID-19, data suggests that domestic abuse is acting like an opportunistic infection, flourishing in the conditions created by the pandemic;

(e) Even prior to the COVID-19 public health emergency, the centers for disease control and prevention estimated that intimate partner violence costs a cisgender female survivor an average of one hundred four thousand dollars across her lifetime;

(f) This is compounded by the fact that economic abuse occurs in ninety-nine percent of all instances of intimate partner violence, leaving survivors with little to no income, no access to cash or bank accounts, fraudulent or coerced debt in their names, and damaged financial profiles;

(g) Survivors are, on average, four times more likely to have experienced material hardships in the past year, such as food or housing insecurity, compared with the average American adult;

(h) The costs associated with experiencing intimate partner violence, compounded by tactics of economic abuse, keep many survivors in danger. In one study, seventy-three percent of survivors reported staying with their abuser because they could not afford to leave, and, of those survivors, fifty percent stayed for two years or longer.

(i) A survey of one thousand three hundred twenty-one survivors of domestic violence experienced the following leading impacts of the COVID-19 public health emergency:

(I) Escalating violence;

(II) Fewer financial resources, making it harder to get or stay safe;

(III) Theft of stimulus checks and other COVID-19 related assistance; and

(IV) Slowed court proceedings keeping survivors in contact with their abusers and delaying potential income, such as child support;

(j) Anti-domestic violence organizations in Colorado that received funding from the state department of human services evaluate their services in accordance with two required outcomes of the federal "Family Violence Prevention and Services Act". These two outcomes, to create a safety plan with survivors and to ensure that survivors are aware of community resources, demonstrate that short-term services lead to reduced violence and increased quality of life over time. Anti-domestic violence organizations in Colorado that receive funding from the state department of human services must provide at least seven of the eight program elements established by the national domestic violence evidence project.

(k) The basic theory of change underlying how domestic violence advocacy organizations' activities impact adult and child survivors' well-being states that common elements of programming, including safety planning, offering encouragement and information, lead to positive participant outcomes, such as increased knowledge and skill, reduced distress, and increased access to community resources. These outcomes contribute to measurable factors improving survivors' well-being, including factors of hopefulness and interpersonal factors of social connectedness, and economic stability, which ultimately assist with social and emotional well-being.

(2) The general assembly further finds that:

(a) Victims' assistance and law enforcement (VALE) collections have been declining since 2011, while the requests for grants and services continue to increase;

(b) As a result of the COVID-19 public health emergency, some local VALE programs reported as much as a forty percent decrease in collections and several of the metropolitan VALE programs had to significantly cut grants this past year by up to fifty percent. One judicial district was unable to award any VALE funds for 2021.

(c) Because of the decrease in collections, the state VALE program cut grants from two years to six months for 2021-2022;

(d) In 2015, the federal government increased the cap on the funds that states could receive as part of their federal "Victims of Crime Act" formula grant. This change resulted in a significant, but inconsistent increase in the amount of federal funds Colorado received.

(e) In 2018, the federal award reached a peak of fifty-eight million dollars. Unfortunately, since that time it has decreased annually and the 2021 award will be nineteen million dollars, a sixty-seven percent decrease.

(f) Victims in Colorado and agencies that provide critical services cannot sustain programming with such inconsistent funding; and

(g) The federal "Victims of Crime Act" fund is dwindling and it is unknown when a federal fix will be approved to stabilize this funding source.

(3) The general assembly further declares that:

(a) The federal government enacted the "American Rescue Plan Act of 2021", Pub.L. 117-2, as the act may be subsequently amended, to provide support to state, local, and tribal governments in responding to the impact of the COVID-19 public health emergency and in their efforts to contain the effects of the COVID-19 public health emergency on their communities, residents, and businesses. Under the federal act, the state of Colorado receives over three billion dollars to be used for the purposes identified in the federal act.

(b) Regulations construing the federal act promulgated by the United States treasury identify a nonexclusive list of uses that address the disproportionate negative economic effects of the COVID-19 public health emergency.

(4) The general assembly further determines that the programs and services funded by the transfers in this section are appropriate uses of the money transferred to Colorado under the federal act. This money will be put to crucial domestic violence victim's services programs across the state for persons across the state disproportionately affected by the COVID-19 public health emergency. The general assembly further intends that a broad and diverse stakeholder process shall be created to guide the state's use of the money.
