Fiscal Note Status: The fiscal note reflects the enacted bill.

Summary of Legislation

Current law forbids a person from publishing on the internet the personal information of a law enforcement official, human services worker, or their immediate family if the information's dissemination poses an imminent and serious threat. The bill extends this prohibition to include information about a public safety worker, which includes certain employees and contractors of the Department of Corrections, a noncertified deputy sheriff or detention officer who has contact with inmates, or certain employees or contractors of a community corrections program. It also extends the protection to judges, prosecutors, and public defenders. The bill also permits protected persons to request that state or local governments remove personal information from online records.

Comparable Crime Analysis

Legislative Council Staff is required to include certain information in the fiscal note for any bill that creates a new crime, changes the classification of an existing crime, or changes an element of an existing crime. This section outlines data on crimes comparable to the offense in this bill and discusses assumptions on future rates of criminal conviction for those offense.

Prior conviction data and assumptions. This bill changes the element of the existing offense of publicly sharing personal information of law enforcement officials and human services workers by also making it an offense to publicly share the personal information of a public safety worker. From 2018 to 2020, zero offenders have been sentenced and convicted for this offense; therefore, the fiscal note assumes that there will continue to be minimal or no additional criminal case filings or convictions for this offense under the bill. Because the bill is not expected to have a tangible impact on criminal justice-related revenue or expenditures at the state or local levels, these potential impacts are not discussed further in this fiscal note.

State Expenditures

Beginning in the current FY 2020-21, to the extent that a protected person contacts a state department to remove personal information published online, workload for that department will increase. The fiscal note assumes that these cases will be rare and any increase in workload will be minimal.

Local Government

Beginning in the current FY 2020-21, the bill is expected to increase workload in local governments, should protected persons request that an office remove information from its website.

Effective Date

This bill was signed into law by the Governor and took effect on June 24, 2021.
