Summary of Legislation

The bill requires pet care facilities, licensed under the Pet Animal Care and Facilities Act (PACFA), to notify patrons of an infectious disease outbreak with 24 hours of discovery.

Background

PACFA is a program within the Department of Agriculture (CDA) that licenses and inspects all pet animal care facilities and businesses in Colorado. Any entity that engages in selling, transferring, adopting, breeding, boarding, training, grooming, sheltering, rescuing, or transporting pet animals is required to be licensed under PACFA. Annually, PACFA employees issue approximately 2,200 licenses, conduct 3,000 inspections, and perform 750 complaint investigations. Any violation of PACFA regulations may result in a warning, fine, or other penalties.

State Revenue

The bill may increase state revenue from any change in registration fees or civil penalties.

Fee impact on licensed animal shelter and rescue registrations. If the bill results in increases state expenditures, the CDA may increase the PACFA registration fee. As discussed below, this impact is expected to be minimal. Current fees range from $350 to $450 and, per state law, the CDA may raise them up to $700. These fees are not subject to TABOR.

Civil penalties. Under current law, any person who violates the PACFA is subject to a civil penalty. The bill may increase state revenue to the extent that the provisions in the bill are violated, resulting in the collection of civil penalties. Any civil fines collected are subject to TABOR and are credited to the General Fund.

State Expenditures

To the extent that the bill results in additional complaints being filled or additional complaints resulting in disciplinary action, workload may increase in the CDA, the Office of Administrative Courts in the Department of Personal and Administration (DPA), and the trial courts in the Judicial Department. Despite the high level of complaints filed under PACFA compared to other professional regulations, the fiscal note assumes a high level of compliance because of the flexibility of the requirements and their relatively non-contentious nature.

Department of Agriculture. The bill may result in additional complaints or disciplinary procedures for the CDA. If the division chooses to investigate and take action, costs associated with legal services, provided by the Department of Law, may also increase.

Administrative and trial courts. The bill may increase workload for the Office of Administrative Courts in the DPA, and subsequently the trial courts in the Judicial Department, to handle any challenges to agency disciplinary decisions.

Local Government

Counties often operate animal shelters or contract out the operation of these facilities. Workload will minimally increase to comply with the new requirements.

Effective Date

This bill was signed into law by the Governor and took effect on June 3, 2024.
