Summary of Legislation

Under current law, an applicant for a teacher license is required to disclose all misdemeanor convictions, except misdemeanor traffic offenses or infractions, regardless of the date of conviction. The bill instead requires that an applicant:

- disclose all misdemeanor convictions against an at-risk person or child, regardless of the date of conviction;
- disclose any misdemeanor convictions within the prior seven years or that are grounds for license denial under current law; and
- not disclose a misdemeanor conviction that occurred more than seven years ago if it was not committed against an at-risk person or child or is not grounds for license denial.

State Expenditures

The bill increases workload for the Educator Licensing Division in the Colorado Department of Education to update forms and materials and answer questions about the changes. The department will also modify the educator licensing system to reflect the disclosure requirements; those changes can occur within the scope of the existing vendor contract. To the extent the bill increases the number of applicants for licensure, workload will also increase. No change in appropriations is required.

Effective Date

The bill was signed into law by the Governor on April 20, 2026, and takes effect on August 12, 2026, assuming no referendum petition is filed.
