Summary of Legislation

Under current law, a candidate for elected office in the state must be able to access the ballot through the caucus process, or any future alternative process that is accessible to persons with disabilities. A political party must ensure that persons with a disability are able to participate in a precinct caucus or a state party assembly with the use of a video conferencing or an alternative means of participation.

This bill clarifies that a state political party is responsible for ensuring accessibility, and any person who is subjected to a violation of this provision may file suit against the state political party. An individual, including a member of or volunteer for a political party or a local political party, may not be held liable for a violation of caucus accessibility requirements.

Assessment of No Fiscal Impact

The bill clarifies that the state political party and not individuals bear legal responsibility to ensure accessibility for persons with disabilities. This will not increase the number or substance of judicial cases of alleged discrimination, and results in no change to state or local government revenue or expenditures. For this reason, the bill is assessed as having no fiscal impact.

Effective Date

The Governor signed the bill into law and it took effect on April 27, 2026.
