Summary of Legislation

The bill changes and clarifies the application of the Colorado Open Meetings Law and the Colorado Open Records Act with respect to meetings and communications of the General Assembly and its members.

Under current law, when a public body conducts public business or if a majority of members or a quorum of members is in attendance, the public must be notified in advance and minutes of the meeting must be recorded. This bill establishes that for the purposes of applying the open meetings law to the General Assembly, "public business" means legislation and bills, resolutions, and memorials, or other matters being considered by a statutory committee, any interim committee, or a committee of reference. Public business does not include matters that are administrative, interpersonal, or logistical if the merits or substance of matters are not discussed.

Additionally, a quorum can only be established when the full membership of a public body of the legislature is meeting at the same time. A quorum must be contemporaneous to require public notification and meeting minutes. Finally, the bill establishes that written communications exchanged between two or more members of the General Assembly, including electronic communication, are not subject to open meeting laws; however, a record of the communication may be subject to inspection if required under open records law.
