Section 4. Insolvency protections

- In an insolvency event, the parties shall treat protected digital interests in accordance with this act and other governing law, giving maximum lawful effect to privacy, resident intent, and protected-status limitations.
- A covered operator shall not use an insolvency event as a pretext to expand unauthorized transfer of protected interests.

Section 5. Successor handling

- A protected successor may receive only the access, control, or notice authorized by law and any valid resident designation.

Required construction clauses

- Independent operation. This act operates independently and remains effective whether or not any related measure or companion act is adopted.
- Severability. If any provision of this act or its application is held invalid, the invalidity does not affect other provisions or applications that can be given effect without the invalid provision or application.
- Single-subject construction. This act shall be construed to embrace only the single subject described in its title and no separate subject shall be inferred from a remedy, definition, recordkeeping duty, funding mechanism, or construction clause that is necessarily and properly connected to that subject.
- Revenue and fee construction. Any money authorized by this act shall be construed and administered only in the manner and to the extent permitted by applicable constitutional and statutory limitations.

Annex and Effective-Date Integration

Annex incorporation

Annex A to this measure contains Family Vault multi-party authorization templates, dispute-quarantine protocols, and insolvency continuity checklists.

The annex may refine continuity mechanics but may not impair the append-only, anti-sabotage, or no-unilateral-destruction rules of this measure.

Effective date and implementation

This measure takes effect on the date declared by law following approval; except that Family Vault administrative mechanics may phase in according to the implementation schedule.

Core successor-designation and continuity protections take effect with the measure and remain in force during implementation.
