HOUSE BILL 24-1350

BY REPRESENTATIVE(S) Froelich and Story, Bird, Lindsay, Sirota, Vigil, Weissman, Clifford, Hamrick, Joseph, McLachlan, Snyder; also SENATOR(S) Winter F. and Michaelson Jenet, Buckner, Cutter, Exum, Fields, Gardner, Hinrichsen, Jaquez Lewis, Kolker, Marchman, Priola, Sullivan.

CONCERNING STANDARDS RELATED TO COURT PROCEEDINGS FOR ALLOCATION OF PARENTAL RESPONSIBILITIES TO KEEP CHILDREN SAFE.

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Colorado:

SECTION 1. Legislative declaration. (1) The general assembly finds that:

(a) The general assembly, along with other state legislatures, the United States congress, and the United Nations, has identified that family court reform is necessary to prevent the common occurrence of awarding parental responsibilities for minor children to perpetrators of violence, including perpetrators of intimate partner violence, child abuse, and child sexual abuse;

Capital letters or bold & italic numbers indicate new material added to existing law; dashes through words or numbers indicate deletions from existing law and such material is not part of the act.

(b) United Nations experts have described the issue of protecting victims of abuse in custody disputes, particularly women and children, as an international crisis;

(c) Recently, the general assembly passed House Bill 21-1228 and House Bill 23-1178. Among other things, these bills require certain court personnel who are involved in parental responsibility proceedings to complete training with evidence-based and peer-reviewed curricula in domestic violence, child abuse, and child sexual abuse. The bills also require court findings related to domestic violence, child abuse, and child sexual abuse when determining parental responsibilities, and they require certain court-appointed expert witnesses in parental responsibilities proceedings to have appropriate qualifications. Finally, the bills limit the use of reunification treatment when a claim of domestic violence, child abuse, or child sexual abuse has been made, and they conform with the provisions of the federal "Keeping Children Safe from Family Violence Act", or "Kayden's Law". Additional clarification and protections for children and former partners are needed to build upon House Bill 21-1228 and House Bill 23-1178.

(d) Additionally, the general assembly recently passed House Bill 23-1108. The bill addressed the important and difficult work of child and family investigators and parental responsibilities evaluators and their roles in making courts safer and more accessible for domestic violence survivors. It is imperative that judges understand the work of these critical court personnel and both the positive effect or the negative consequences it may have depending upon training. The recommendations made by the task force to study victim and survivor awareness and responsiveness training requirements for judicial personnel, created pursuant to House Bill 23-1108, recognized the need to expand expertise and knowledge regarding the effect of domestic violence exposure on children, power dynamics following partner separation, the reliability of information presented to the court, and the role of the court in protecting children. Implementing these recommendations is critical to help judges work effectively with child and family investigators and parental responsibilities evaluators to improve support of domestic violence survivors.

(2) (a) Therefore, the general assembly declares it is necessary to expand opportunities to ensure a child's opinions are entered into the record and considered by the court when determining parental responsibilities, to consider coercive control by perpetrators of violence, and to clarify and expand the state's role and responsibilities to ensure these standards are upheld.

(b) Furthermore, the general assembly declares that it is encouraged by the recommendations made by the task force to study victim and survivor awareness and responsiveness training requirements for judicial personnel, created pursuant to House Bill 23-1108. The general assembly looks forward to the judicial department's implementation of these recommendations, including actions necessary to comply with the federal "Keeping Children Safe from Family Violence Act", or "Kayden's Law".
