also SENATOR(S) Coleman and Roberts, Lundeen, Frizell, Michaelson Jenet, Mullica, Pelton B., Snyder, Amabile, Baisley, Bridges, Bright, Carson, Catlin, Daugherty, Exum, Gonzales J., Hinrichsen, Kipp, Kirkmeyer, Liston, Marchman, Pelton R., Rich, Simpson.

CONCERNING HOUSING.

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Colorado:

SECTION 1. Short title - legislative declaration. (1) The short title of this act is the "Colorado American Dream Act".

(2) The general assembly finds that:

(a) Homeownership is a cornerstone of economic stability, but for Capital letters or bold & italic numbers indicate new material added to existing law; dashes through words or numbers indicate deletions from existing law and such material is not part of the act.

many Coloradans, particularly first-time homebuyers, it has become increasingly out of reach. Surveys show that while 90% of renters aspire to own a home, more than half believe it is unattainable. This concern is personal for many, with over 4 out of 5 parents expressing concerns about whether their children will be able to afford to live in Colorado. Many Coloradans agree that increasing the variety and availability of housing options is crucial, as people want the ability to find and choose housing that fits their needs, whether it's through more accessible price points or housing types.

(b) Millennials, the largest group of homebuyers in Colorado at 38% of the market, are facing increasing challenges, as the median age of first-time homebuyers has risen from 35 to 38 in just the past year. These gaps are just a few of many that highlight the urgent need for policies that facilitate affordable and attainable homeownership, particularly through the construction of entry-level homes.

(c) Condominiums and townhomes have often served as affordable starter home options, providing the first step on the homeownership ladder for many Coloradans. Despite the clear need for these homes, however, condominium development in Colorado has drastically decreased. Before 2009, there were 1.25 new apartments for every one condominium. This has shifted radically to 14 new apartments for every condominium in recent years. The decline in condominium construction coincides with a housing shortfall of at least 100,000 homes in the state, further worsening the availability of affordable options for first-time buyers.

(d) Current construction litigation laws are often cited as a contributing factor to the high cost of construction and a deterrent for developers to pursue condominium projects. At the same time, homeowners have limited up-front assurances of high-quality construction in new homes. It is critical that policies seek to support homeowners' rights while spurring development in a key housing market.

(e) Without addressing these challenges, Colorado will continue to experience a shortage of entry-level homes for its first-time homebuyers and struggle to meet the needs of Coloradans. It is imperative that the state creates policies that encourage the entire housing ecosystem to work together to create more attainable housing options for Coloradans.

(f) This act is intended to:

(I) Promote the construction of affordable homes so that homeownership becomes a more attainable goal for a larger portion of the population;

(II) Expand prospective homeowners' access to high-quality, well-constructed homes;

(III) Ensure continued protections for homeowners when defects in their homes exist;

(IV) Reform construction litigation to reduce the excessive costs associated with entry-level home development;

(V) Strengthen Colorado's housing market by expanding opportunities for first-time homebuyers; and

(VI) Ensure that future generations of Coloradans are able to access the American dream of homeownership, which is integral to long-term financial security and generational wealth-building; and

(g) This act is rationally related to the legitimate state interest of increasing middle market housing in Colorado.
