Summary of Legislation

This bill creates a private civil right of action if a person, with malicious intent, intrudes upon another person without his or her consent through the use of a device to capture a photograph, sound recording, physical impression or digital image. Under the bill, the intrusion must be unreasonably offensive or objectionable and the victim must have had a reasonable expectation of privacy and suffer emotional distress as a result of the intrusion.

The bill makes exceptions for lawful activities, such as those of a government official acting within his or her official capacity, and when the use of the device is in compliance with the Federal Aviation Administration and within a reasonable scope of business activities.

State Expenditures

Beginning in FY 2016-17, this bill is anticipated to increase workload in the Judicial Department to hear any civil cases under the bill. The fiscal note assumes any such increases are minimal and will not require an increase in appropriations.

Effective Date

The bill was postponed indefinitely by the House Judiciary Committee on March 24, 2016.
