A BILL FOR AN ACT

CONCERNING CRIMINAL OFFENSES FOR FAILURE TO PAY WAGES, AND,
IN CONNECTION THERewith, IMPLEMENTING RECOMMENDATIONS FROM THE COLORADO HUMAN TRAFFICKING COUNCIL.

Bill Summary

(Note: This summary applies to this bill as introduced and does not reflect any amendments that may be subsequently adopted. If this bill passes third reading in the house of introduction, a bill summary that applies to the reengrossed version of this bill will be available at http://leg.colorado.gov.)

Under existing law, an employer who willfully refuses to pay a wage claim, or falsely denies the amount of a wage claim, or the validity thereof, or that the same is due, with intent to secure any discount or underpayment of such unpaid wage or with intent to annoy, harass, oppress, hinder, delay, or defraud the person who is owed wages (wage theft), is guilty of a misdemeanor.

The bill prohibits wage theft with the intent to coerce a person who is owed wages. The bill defines wage theft as theft, which is a felony when the theft is of an amount greater than $2,000.

The bill removes the exemption from criminal penalties for an employer who is unable to pay wages or compensation because of a chapter 7 bankruptcy action or other court action resulting in the employer having limited control over his or her assets. The bill includes in the definition of employee any person who performs work that is an integral part of the employer's business and includes in the definition of employer foreign labor contractors, officers or agents of an employer entity, and any person acting directly or indirectly in the interest of an employer in relation to an employee.

Under existing law, an employer who pays an employee a wage less than the minimum wage is guilty of a misdemeanor. Under the bill, a person who willfully pays a wage less than the minimum commits theft, which is a felony when the theft is of an amount greater than $2,000.

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Colorado:

SECTION 1. Legislative declaration. (1) The general assembly finds and declares that:

(a) The Colorado human trafficking council, created pursuant to House Bill 14-1273, enacted in 2014, was established to improve services for victims of human trafficking, assist in the prosecution of human traffickers, and combat the unlawful practice of human trafficking;

(b) The nonpartisan 31-member Colorado human trafficking council, its staff, and its partner volunteers should be recognized for their public service, dedication, and work in studying the epidemic of labor trafficking in Colorado and in committing themselves to the eradication of human trafficking in all its forms;

(c) The Colorado human trafficking council's 2018 annual report to the general assembly found that:
(I) Between 2015 and 2017, state prosecutors filed 129 cases using the new human trafficking statutes, only one of which was for labor trafficking;

(II) Victims of labor trafficking, like those of sex trafficking, should not be seen as complicit in their victimization and are worthy of justice;

(III) Persons who commit the crime of human trafficking often commit other crimes such as wage theft, tax evasion, and workers' compensation fraud, which drains local and state resources, as well as denies the state its right to revenue;

(IV) A comprehensive approach is needed to address the crime of labor trafficking; and

(V) A bill enacted by the general assembly to recognize labor as a thing of value that can be subject to theft would aid law enforcement in combating the crime of labor trafficking.

(2) The general assembly acknowledges that not all victims of wage theft are victims of human trafficking. Studies have found that, apart from human trafficking, wage theft costs individual workers in Colorado hundreds of millions of dollars in wages and benefits each year and costs the state of Colorado tens of millions of dollars in revenue.

(3) Therefore, the general assembly declares that:

(a) It is in the public interest of the state to adopt the recommendation of the Colorado human trafficking council to codify that labor is a thing of value subject to theft to assist in the enforcement and prosecution of laws designed to combat labor trafficking, which is a form of modern-day slavery;

(b) Existing law, as interpreted by the Colorado supreme court in Leonard v. McMorris, 63 P.3d 323 (2003), does not provide sufficient protections for workers and their families; and

(c) In order to protect all workers, it is necessary to close loopholes that allow for the exploitation of human labor for profit.
