Summary of Legislation

Under current law, a county must bury an unclaimed dead body at the expense of the county after following certain procedures. This bill authorizes a public officer or employee of the state or a political subdivision of the state, a coroner, or a person who has control over an unclaimed dead body to use any lawful method for the final disposition of an unclaimed body including cremation and makes conforming amendments. This bill also extends the period for notifying the anatomical board of the unclaimed body to five days, after reasonable effort is made to identify a family member, friend, or representative.

Local Government

Beginning in FY 2019-20, this bill potentially decreases county costs by allowing counties to use any legal method of disposing of an unclaimed dead body. Savings will occur if a county chooses to cremate rather than bury an unclaimed body. Any savings will vary by county depending on the number of unclaimed bodies and the cost of the method of final disposition. For informational purposes, rural counties are estimated to dispose of up to five unclaimed bodies per year and urban counties are estimated to dispose of approximately 20 unclaimed bodies per year. Burial costs are estimated to be $5,000 while cremation costs are estimated to be $2,000 per unclaimed body; therefore, rural counties choosing to cremate unclaimed bodies will save up to $15,000 per year while urban counties will save approximately $60,000. To the extent that the additional time provided results in the finding of a family member, friend, or relative to take possession of the body, these impacts will be reduced.

Effective Date

This bill was postponed indefinitely by the House Judiciary Committee on April 11, 2019.
