SENATE
Amended 2nd Reading
June 1, 2021

The federal government enacted the "American Rescue Plan Act of 2021", Pub.L. 117-2, as the act may be subsequently amended, (federal act) to provide support to state, local, and tribal governments in responding to the impact of the COVID-19 public health emergency and to assist them in their efforts to contain the effects of the COVID-19 public health emergency on their communities, residents, and businesses.

As part of the federal act, the state will receive $3,828,761,790 from the federal coronavirus state fiscal recovery fund to be used for specific purposes identified in the federal act. The bill allocates a total of $15 million to be appropriated for victim's services programs and purposes related to populations who have been disproportionately negatively affected by the COVID-19 public health emergency, including those affected by domestic violence and sexual assault. The money will be appropriated from the economic recovery and relief cash fund using money from the federal coronavirus state fiscal recovery fund. All money appropriated through the bill must conform with the eligible uses set forth in the federal act.

The bill appropriates money to the following entities:

- The forensic nurse examiner telehealth program;
- The victims and witnesses assistance and law enforcement fund;
- The address confidentiality program fund; and
- The Colorado domestic abuse program fund for the funding of domestic violence programs.

1 Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Colorado:

2 SECTION 1. Legislative declaration. (1) The general assembly
3 finds and declares that:

4 (a) Victims of crime face financial, medical, and logistical barriers
5 to recovering from victimization. This recovery has become more 6 difficult as a result of the COVID-19 public health emergency.

7 (b) A national review of research literature found that domestic 8 violence incidents in the country increased by more than eight percent 9 following the imposition of stay-at-home orders;

10 (c) Research suggests that social isolation is one of the most 11 prominent tactics used by abusers to distance victims from the victims'

1 support networks;

2 (d) Although the stay-at-home orders and general movement
3 restrictions imposed by countries around the world are slowing the 4 infection rate of COVID-19, data suggests that domestic abuse is acting 5 like an opportunistic infection, flourishing in the conditions created by the 6 pandemic;

7 (e) Even prior to the COVID-19 public health emergency, the 8 centers for disease control and prevention estimated that intimate partner 9 violence costs a cisgender female survivor an average of one hundred 10 four thousand dollars across her lifetime;

11 (f) This is compounded by the fact that economic abuse occurs in 12 ninety-nine percent of all instances of intimate partner violence, leaving 13 survivors with little to no income, no access to cash or bank accounts, 14 fraudulent or coerced debt in their names, and damaged financial profiles;

15 (g) Survivors are, on average, four times more likely to have 16 experienced material hardships in the past year, such as food or housing
17 insecurity, compared with the average American adult;

18 (h) The costs associated with experiencing intimate partner
19 violence, compounded by tactics of economic abuse, keep many survivors
20 in danger. In one study, seventy-three percent of survivors reported 21 staying with their abuser because they could not afford to leave, and, of 22 those survivors, fifty percent stayed for two years or longer.

23 (i) A survey of one thousand three hundred twenty-one survivors 24 of domestic violence experienced the following leading impacts of the 25 COVID-19 public health emergency:

26 (I) Escalating violence;

27 (II) Fewer financial resources, making it harder to get or stay safe;

1 (III) Theft of stimulus checks and other COVID-19 related 2 assistance; and

3 (IV) Slowed court proceedings keeping survivors in contact with 4 their abusers and delaying potential income, such as child support;

5 (j) Anti-domestic violence organizations in Colorado that received 6 funding from the state department of human services evaluate their 7 services in accordance with two required outcomes of the federal "Family
8 Violence Prevention and Services Act". These two outcomes, to create a 9 safety plan with survivors and to ensure that survivors are aware of 10 community resources, demonstrate that short-term services lead to 11 reduced violence and increased quality of life over time. Anti-domestic 12 violence organizations in Colorado that receive funding from the state 13 department of human services must provide at least seven of the eight 14 program elements established by the national domestic violence evidence 15 project.

16 (k) The basic theory of change underlying how domestic violence
17 advocacy organizations' activities impact adult and child survivors'
18 well-being states that common elements of programming, including safety 19 planning, offering encouragement and information, lead to positive
20 participant outcomes, such as increased knowledge and skill, reduced
21 distress, and increased access to community resources. These outcomes 22 contribute to measurable factors improving survivors' well-being, 23 including factors of hopefulness and interpersonal factors of social 24 connectedness, and economic stability, which ultimately assist with social 25 and emotional well-being.

26 (2) The general assembly further finds that:

27 (a) Victims' assistance and law enforcement (VALE) collections

1 have been declining since 2011, while the requests for grants and services
2 continue to increase;

3 (b) As a result of the COVID-19 public health emergency, some 4 local VALE programs reported as much as a forty percent decrease in 5 collections and several of the metropolitan VALE programs had to 6 significantly cut grants this past year by up to fifty percent. One judicial 7 district was unable to award any VALE funds for 2021.

8 (c) Because of the decrease in collections, the state VALE
9 program cut grants from two years to six months for 2021-2022;

10 (d) In 2015, the federal government increased the cap on the funds
11 that states could receive as part of their federal "Victims of Crime Act"
12 formula grant. This change resulted in a significant, but inconsistent 13 increase in the amount of federal funds Colorado received.

14 (e) In 2018, the federal award reached a peak of fifty-eight million 15 dollars. Unfortunately, since that time it has decreased annually and the 16 2021 award will be nineteen million dollars, a sixty-seven percent 17 decrease.

18 (f) Victims in Colorado and agencies that provide critical services 19 cannot sustain programming with such inconsistent funding; and

20 (g) The federal "Victims of Crime Act" fund is dwindling and it
21 is unknown when a federal fix will be approved to stabilize this funding 22 source.

23 (3) The general assembly further declares that:

24 (a) The federal government enacted the "American Rescue Plan 25 Act of 2021", Pub.L. 117-2, as the act may be subsequently amended, to 26 provide support to state, local, and tribal governments in responding to 27 the impact of the COVID-19 public health emergency and in their efforts

1 to contain the effects of the COVID-19 public health emergency on their 2 communities, residents, and businesses. Under the federal act, the state of 3 Colorado receives over three billion dollars to be used for the purposes 4 identified in the federal act.

5 (b) Regulations construing the federal act promulgated by the 6 United States treasury identify a nonexclusive list of uses that address the 7 disproportionate negative economic effects of the COVID-19 public 8 health emergency.

9 (4) The general assembly further determines that the programs and 10 services funded by the transfers in this section are appropriate uses of the 11 money transferred to Colorado under the federal act. This money will be 12 put to crucial domestic violence victim's services programs across the 13 state for persons across the state disproportionately affected by the 14 COVID-19 public health emergency. The general assembly further 15 intends that a broad and diverse stakeholder process shall be created to 16 guide the state's use of the money.
