Summary of Legislation

This bill creates the Colorado Surrogacy Agreement Act to govern surrogacy agreements. Specifically, the act:

- creates eligibility requirements to execute an agreement;
- defines the duties for parties of the agreement;
- specifies the process for creating a surrogacy agreement, the content of such agreements, and parties' right to legal representation;
- establishes how agreements may be changed as a result of death or a change in marital status;
- outlines the process and obligation of parties when terminating an agreement; and
- authorizes the court to issue orders recognizing or enforcing surrogacy agreements, and to determine parentage

State Expenditures

The bill will increase workload for several state departments beginning in FY 2021-22. The trial courts in the Judicial Department will have a minimal increase in workload to hear any cases related to surrogacy agreements. The Department of Regulatory Agencies will conduct outreach and education to medical professionals. The Child Support Services Division in the Department of Human Services will update rules, desk aids, and training material to address the changes implemented through this legislation. This bill will also increase workload for the Colorado Department of Public Health and Environment to update birth certificates with the names of the intended parents. None of these increases are expected to require additional appropriations.

Effective Date

The bill was signed into law by the Governor and took effect on May 6, 2021.
