The bill increases the cap on benefits for certain workers' compensation claims, among other changes. The bill increases state expenditures beginning FY 2024-25.

Appropriation Summary: No appropriation is required

Fiscal Note Status: The revised fiscal note reflects the introduced bill, as amended by the House Business Affairs and Labor Committee.

Summary of Legislation

Under current law, a claimants' benefit is determined by an impairment rating. A claimant whose impairment rating is 19 percent or less may receive up to $75,000 from combined temporary disability and permanent partial disability payments. A claimant with impairment greater than 19 percent may receive up to $150,000. This bill increases the caps to $185,000 and $300,000, respectively

The bill also makes several changes related to benefits paid under workers' compensation including:

- allowing a claimant to refuse an offer of modified employment under certain circumstances;
- adding the ear to a list of body parts for which a claimant can receive permanent impairment benefits; and,
- allowing a claimant to have benefits directly deposited into a bank account.

Background

The State Office of Risk Management in the Department of Personnel and Administration (DPA) pays workers' compensation benefits to state employees. The state is self-insured for workers' compensation claims. Annually, the office's actuary projects the state's total workers' compensation needs and estimates the allocation for each agency as a percent of the total.

State Expenditures

The bill is expected to increase state expenditures for the Office of Risk Management in the DPA beginning FY 2024-25. Based on historical data for workers' compensation claims where the state assumed a final admission of liability, increasing the aggregate limit on temporary and permanent injury benefits would require about $600,000 annually. This amount of extra spending for workers' compensation claims is absorbable within the existing compensation pool, and no additional appropriation is required.

Statutory Public Entity

Pinnacol Assurance was created in statute as a political subdivision to provide workers' compensation insurance to employers in Colorado. Expanded benefits under the bill may increase benefits payments by Pinnacol Assurance. If necessary, these additional costs will be covered through adjustments in employer premiums

Effective Date

The bill takes effect 90 days following adjournment of the General Assembly sine die, assuming no referendum petition is filed, and applies to claims on or after that date, except that increasing the caps on certain claimant benefits takes effect January 1, 2025, and applies to claims arising on or after that date.
