election to choose the watchers permitted in each central count facility. These watchers must be selected by the candidate-nominee in accordance with existing processes and limitations for such watchers.

If a candidate-nominee exercises their authority to choose the watchers in each central count facility, then the participating political party represented by the candidate-nominee must abide by the candidate-nominee's choices and is not entitled to different or additional watchers at the count facilities. The participating political party remains entitled to watchers of its choice during signature verification and at each voter service and polling center in accordance with current law.

Section 3 requires that the same provisions for watchers at general and congressional vacancy elections, as modified by section 2, be applied to any recount for a United States senator, representative in congress, and any state office or district office of state concern.

Section 1 makes a conforming amendment to the definition of "watcher".
