

STATUTORY CONSOLIDATION WORKGROUP RECOMMENDATIONS

The Statutory Consolidation Workgroup met seven times from July 15 through October 7, 2013. All meetings were held in a conference room at the Arapahoe House Denver Outpatient Clinic located in downtown Denver. Phone access was provided for all participants. GENERAL RECOMMENDATIONS:

- 1) The Task Force concludes that at this point the statutes regarding alcohol and substance abuse emergency holds and involuntary commitments should be consolidated for consistency and ease of use. (C.R.S. §27-81-101 et. seq. and C.R.S. §27-82-101 et. seq.)
- 2) The Task Force also concludes that discussion should continue as to whether to consolidate these statutes with the mental health involuntary hold and certification statute (C.R.S. §27-65-101 et. seq.). Due to a lack of detail as to how current impediments to further consolidation of statutes to a unified civil commitment statute can be resolved, there was not a consensus among the subcommittee members as to whether or not these statutes should be consolidated but there was consensus that the discussion should continue. This topic should be considered by the Behavioral Health Transformation Council or other council or commission that addresses issues related to mental health and substance use.

SPECIFIC RECOMMENDATIONS CONCERNING CONSOLIDATION OF ALCOHOL/SUBSTANCE ABUSE STATUTES:

- 1) REMOVAL OF THE STATE FROM THE PLACEMENT PROCESS: A major change recommended by the Task Force is to remove the state from the placement process in substance abuse commitments. The Task Force also recommends that the language regarding general powers of the unit within the DHS responsible for mental health and substance use disorders be moved to a different section of the statutes. Currently, if a court finds grounds for an involuntary commitment due to alcohol or drug abuse, it orders commitment to the unit within the DHS. The DHS can then transfer physical custody to an approved treatment facility upon agreement of the facility. The suggested language would change the word “unit” to “facility.” Thus if the court orders involuntary commitment, it will order commitment to the licensed facility. The facility will then have the right to transfer physical custody to another appropriate approved facility upon agreement of that facility. The facility, rather than the unit within DHS, will also be the entity to ask a court for recommitment. The facility will also be responsible for adequate and appropriate treatment. If adopted, the Task Force is in favor of a phased-in approach to permit sufficient opportunity to resolve any logistical or operational difficulties encountered during this transition.

One of the primary reasons for this change is that there is often a delay in placing someone in a treatment facility for alcohol or drug abuse because of the unavailability of the state employee who handles this area. Also, the practice of commitment to a facility has worked in other states and it seems that it would work in Colorado. Another option that was suggested was to commit the person to the Director of Human Services but not include the placement responsibility in DHS. Another possibility would be to allow the state to be available to assist in placement if there are problems with a facility not accepting a person when they have the space to do so.

Note: There was not complete consensus on this recommendation. The hospitals are concerned about the liability issues since the state now assumes liability for placement. Concern was also expressed about how to compel facilities to accept someone when they have space – perhaps the state has more ability to do that than another facility. However, it was pointed out that this issue could be addressed through the contracts the DHS establishes with facilities.

- 2) DURATION OF TREATMENT: The Task Force recommends that the time frames for substance abuse commitments mirror those for mental health certifications. Currently, for a mental health involuntary certification, the first certification is for up to three months, the extension is for up to three months and then there can be up to six months of certification that can be extended in six-month increments indefinitely. In the case of alcohol or substance abuse commitments, the current initial involuntary commitment is for up to thirty days with the possibility of two additional commitments of up to ninety days each.

The Task Force recommends that the initial commitment for substance abuse be up to three months rather than up to thirty days with a subsequent up to three month commitment possibility as well as subsequent up to six month commitments so that the time frames are the same as those for mental health certifications.

Those involved in substance abuse treatment feel that this is a more realistic approach because they have found that if people know they can get out in thirty days, they focus primarily on that fact and not on treatment. In many cases, thirty days is not sufficient for meaningful treatment. If the potential time frame is longer, the potential for effective treatment is greater. It is very rare that someone remains committed for the full ninety days.

- 3) TERMINATION OF TREATMENT: The Task Force also recommends that the termination of involuntary treatment with respect to persons who abuse substances be changed to allow termination of treatment without the necessity of a court order. In the case of the mental health certification, a professional person (M.D., D.O., Psy.D.) can file an M-10 Notice of Termination of Involuntary Treatment at the discretion of the professional person. With respect to substance abuse involuntary commitments, the treating professional can request that the court terminate involuntary commitment but the request must go to court, and the court has to order the termination. The Task Force recommends that termination of involuntary treatment be permitted for substance abuse commitments upon the filing of an M-10 Notice of Termination of Involuntary Treatment rather than requiring that the court terminate the treatment.

Since the list of persons who can initiate an involuntary commitment for substance abuse is broader than the list of those who can do so for mental health certifications, the question arises as to who should be able to terminate treatment. Currently, a spouse, guardian, relative, physician, advanced practice nurse, the administrator of an approved facility, or any other responsible person may petition the court for involuntary commitment of an individual with substance abuse problems. The Task Force did not discuss precisely who would be able to terminate treatment for substance abuse commitments but contemplated that the person who could request a termination of treatment would be a licensed health professional on the staff of the approved treatment facility as designated by the administrator of the facility. (Currently the administrator has the authority to discharge a person from the five-day emergency hold if he/she determines that the grounds for which the emergency hold was initiated no longer exist.) We also need to be mindful of the personnel challenges in the rural areas.

- 4) ENFORCEABILITY OF TREATMENT: Currently, contempt of court can be used as an enforcement tool in the substance abuse context to attempt to compel a person back into treatment if he/she is refusing to participate or if he or she leaves the facility. This is not an available option for those certified under the mental health statute as they are not considered able to “knowingly and willfully” disregard a court order. Those in the substance abuse treatment field with whom the Task Force conferred do not think that the contempt procedure is useful or helpful in compelling people to seek or remain in treatment. When an individual under an IC order violates the court’s commitment order, the county attorney will first consult with a MD/DO in an effort to determine whether the conduct exhibited in violating the court’s order was volitional in nature. The county attorney will only proceed with the issuance of a citation of contempt after making a determination that the violation of the court order was done knowingly and willfully, and not as a result of a psychotic disorder. The Task Force recommends that contempt be used sparingly, in accordance with the Colorado County Attorneys’ Association manual entitled, Alcohol/Drug Involuntary Commitments: A Guide for County/District Attorneys.
- 5) MANDATORY COURT HEARING: Currently a mandatory court hearing is required for short and long-term involuntary commitments for substance abuse but not for mental health certifications. Mandatory hearings are required for long-term mental health certifications (six months) only. However, a hearing can be requested for short-term mental health certifications. The Task Force recommends eliminating the mandatory hearing for short-term substance abuse commitments and recommitments but allowing for a hearing if requested. The mandatory hearing for long-term certifications and commitments (six months) would remain the same. This would make the mental health and substance abuse processes more uniform.
- 6) OTHER CHANGES: There are recommended revisions to existing language throughout the combined statute. Some but not all of these are as follows:

- a) Rather than using terms such as “drug dependent persons and persons who are under the influence of drugs” or “alcoholics and intoxicated persons” the Task Force recommends using the following language: “persons who misuse substances” or “persons with substance-use disorders.”
 - b) The Task Force also recommends incorporating the definitions of “danger to self or others” and “gravely disabled” that the Task Force recommends.
 - c) The Task Force recommends replacing language concerning treatment that currently says: “treatment if possible and appropriate” to “deemed likely to be beneficial.”
 - d) The Task Force recommends that next of kin of a person age 18 and over be notified of his/her commitment only if the person committed signs a release of information or as authorized in that person’s behavioral health advance directive.
 - e) For emergency commitments, the Task Force recommends replacing the language “When any person is a person who misuses substances” with “is under the influence of substances and as a result of being under the influence of substances, is a danger to self or others or gravely disabled.”
 - f) The Task Force also recommends adding a sentence in the discharge section that clarifies that a person being discharged shall be offered the opportunity to enroll in voluntary treatment.
 - g) The Task Force recommends that the section that states that a person can be provided appropriate treatment at “no charge” be changed to “at reduced charge.” Those in the behavioral health field feel that it is important for the person to have some responsibility to encourage treatment even if the charge is nominal and based on ability to pay.
- 7) ITEMS REMAINING FOR DISCUSSION: There were several matters discussed but not resolved about which the Task Force recommends further discussion:
- a) As mentioned, the issue of consolidation of the mental health and substance abuse involuntary commitment and certification statutes should continue to be discussed.
 - b) The scarcity of resources is an issue that comes up repeatedly in the context of inadequate capacity and access to treatment for persons placed both voluntarily and involuntarily. This bears further discussion particularly as concern exists as to whether or not there will be sufficient reimbursement for substance abuse services through the new Medicaid expansion under the Affordable Care Act, through third party insurance, and for those who are uninsured.

- c) Should the State continue to play an enforcement role in placement decisions and if so, to what extent? The suggestion was made that these issues can be addressed through contracts. The rules could also make clear that funded licensed programs have a responsibility to accept appropriate referrals for involuntary commitments. This would allow the State to intercede in cases where a transfer is appropriate, a facility has space, but the treatment facility is not cooperating. If the State is removed from the placement process, to whom is the person committed and what remedies are available should facilities refuse to accept certain individuals?

- d) The question as to which healthcare professionals should be authorized to sign certifications and terminations of certifications continues to be a topic of discussion. Scope of practice issues should continue to be considered.

(1) The director shall adopt and may amend and repeal rules for acceptance of persons into the treatment program, considering available treatment resources and facilities, for the purpose of early and effective treatment of a person who misuses substances or persons under the influence of substances. In establishing the rules the director shall be guided by the following standards:

(a) If possible a patient shall be treated on a voluntary rather than an involuntary basis.

(b) A patient shall be initially assigned or transferred to outpatient or intermediate treatment, unless he or she is found to require inpatient treatment.

(c) A person shall not be denied treatment solely because he or she has withdrawn from treatment against medical advice on a prior occasion or because he or she has relapsed after earlier treatment.

(d) An individualized treatment plan shall be prepared and maintained by the treating facility on a current basis for each patient.

(e) Provision shall be made for a continuum of coordinated treatment services, so that a person who leaves a facility or a form of treatment will have available and utilize other appropriate treatment.

§27-81-109 - Voluntary treatment of person who misuses substances or person under the influence of substances.

(1) A person who misuses substances or is under the influence of substances, including a minor, may apply for voluntary treatment directly to an approved treatment facility.

(2) Subject to rules adopted by the director, the administrator in charge of an approved treatment facility may determine who shall be admitted for treatment. If a person is refused admission to an approved treatment facility, the administrator shall refer the person to another approved treatment facility for treatment if ~~possible and appropriate~~ deemed to be likely to be beneficial.

(3) If a patient receiving inpatient care leaves an approved treatment facility, he or she shall be encouraged to consent to appropriate outpatient or intermediate treatment. If it appears to the administrator in charge of the treatment facility that the patient is a person who misuses substances or is under the influence of substances and requires help, the administrator shall arrange for assistance in obtaining supportive services and residential facilities.

§27-81-110 - Voluntary treatment for persons under the influence of substances.

(1) A person who misuses substances or a person under the influence of substances, including a minor, may ~~voluntarily admit~~ apply himself or herself for admission to an approved treatment facility for treatment.

(2) A person who comes voluntarily to an approved treatment facility shall be evaluated or examined by the facility administrator or by his or her authorized designee immediately. A person found to be in need of treatment shall then be admitted to that facility or transferred to another appropriate facility. If a person is found not to be in need of treatment, he or she shall be released or referred to another appropriate facility.

(3) Except as provided in subsection (7) of this section, a voluntarily admitted person shall be released from the approved treatment facility immediately upon his or her request.

(4) A person who is not admitted to an approved treatment facility, and who is not referred to another health facility, and who has no funds may be taken to his or her home, if any. If he or she has no home, the approved treatment facility may assist him or her in obtaining shelter.

~~(5) If a person is admitted to an approved treatment facility, his or her family or next of kin shall be notified as promptly as possible. If an adult person requests that there be no notification, his or her request shall be respected. If a person over the age of eighteen years is admitted to an approved treatment facility, his or her family or next of kin shall be notified only if that person has signed a release of information or given written consent.~~

(6) If the administrator in charge of the approved treatment facility or his or her authorized designee determines that it is for the person's benefit, the person shall be encouraged to agree to further diagnosis and appropriate voluntary treatment.

(7) Nothing in this section shall preclude the approved treatment facility administrator or his or her authorized designee from seeking emergency commitment as provided in section 27-81-111 or involuntary commitment of a person as provided in section 27-81-112, regardless of whether such person has been voluntarily admitted under this section. In such cases, the administrator or designee's further conduct shall be governed by section 27-81-111 or 27-81-112, as applicable.

§27-81-111- Petition for substance misuse evaluation.

(1) A petition for court ordered evaluation alleging that an individual misuses substances or is under the influence of substances and as a result of such, is a danger to himself or herself or others or is gravely disabled may be filed by the person's spouse, significant other or guardian, a relative, a professional person, advanced practice nurse, the administrator in charge of any approved treatment facility, or any other responsible person over the age of eighteen. The petition shall allege that the person is a person who misuses substances or is under the influence of substances and as a result is a danger to self or others or gravely disabled. A refusal to undergo treatment does not constitute evidence of lack of judgment as to the need for treatment.

(2) The petition shall be personally served upon the person for whom court-ordered treatment is being sought along with a notice of hearing. Such hearing must be set within ten days of the filing of the petition. The burden of proof is upon the party seeking court-ordered treatment to establish by clear and convincing evidence that grounds exist to believe that the respondent is a person under the influence of substances or misuses substances and as a result of such, is a danger to himself or herself or others and/or gravely disabled. The person whom is the subject of the petition has the right to request court appointment of legal counsel if that person is indigent and cannot afford to pay for legal counsel.

(3) At the conclusion of the hearing, the court may enter the following orders: the court may order respondent into the custody of a facility designated for the evaluation and treatment of persons who are under the influence of substances or misuse substances and as a result of such, are a danger to himself or herself or others and/or gravely disabled; or the court may find that the evidence is not clear and convincing and dismiss the petition. If the court orders the respondent into the custody of a facility designated for the evaluation and treatment of persons who are under the influence of substances or misuse substances and as a result of such, are a danger to himself or herself or others and/or gravely disabled, the court may also direct the sheriff's department of the jurisdiction wherein the court resides to take the respondent into protective custody for the purposes of transporting the respondent to the nearest available facility designated for the treatment of such persons.

(4) Upon receiving the person ordered by the court under subsection (9), the facility designated for the treatment of persons under the influence of substances or misusing substances and who as a result are a danger to himself or herself or others and/or gravely disabled, shall evaluate the person for a period of no longer than five days and determine whether the person meets criteria for certification under §27-81-112. If the facility determines that the person does not meet criteria for short-term certification, then the facility shall discharge the person and file the notice of termination in accordance to §27-81-114.

§27-81-112 - Emergency ~~commitment~~ hold.

(1)(a) When any person is ~~a person who misuses substances or~~ is under the influence of substances and as a result of being under the influence of substances, a danger to self or others or gravely disabled, such person shall be taken into protective custody by law enforcement authorities or an emergency service patrol, acting with probable cause, and placed in a designated ~~an approved~~ treatment facility. If no such facilities are available, he or she may be detained in an emergency medical facility or jail, but only for so long as may be necessary to prevent injury to himself or herself or others or to prevent a breach of the peace. If the person being detained is a juvenile, as defined in section 19-1-103(68), CRS, the juvenile shall be placed in a setting that is non-secure and physically segregated by sight and sound from the adult offenders. A law enforcement officer or emergency service patrolman, in detaining the person, is taking him into protective custody. In so doing, the detaining officer may protect himself or herself by reasonable methods but shall make every reasonable effort to protect the detainee's health and safety. A taking into protective custody under this section is not an arrest, and no entry or other record shall be made to indicate that the person has been arrested or charged with a crime. Law enforcement or emergency service personnel who act in compliance with this section are acting in the course of their official duties and are not criminally or civilly liable therefor. Nothing in this subsection (1) shall preclude a person who misuses substances or is under the influence of substances and who is not a danger to self or others or gravely disabled from being assisted to his or her home or like location by the law enforcement officer or emergency service patrolman.

(b) A sheriff or police chief who violates the provisions of paragraph (a) of this subsection (1) may be subject to a civil fine of no more than one thousand dollars. The decision to fine shall be based on prior violations of the provisions of paragraph (a) of this subsection (1) by the sheriff or police chief and the willingness of the sheriff or police chief to address the violations in order to comply with paragraph (a) of this subsection (1).

(2) A law enforcement officer, emergency service patrolman, professional person, spouse, guardian, or relative of the person to be certified or any other responsible person over the age of eighteen may make a written application for an emergency ~~commitment~~ hold under this section, directed to the administrator of the approved treatment facility. The application shall state the circumstances requiring an emergency hold ~~commitment~~, including the applicant's personal observations and the specific statements of others, if any, upon which he or she relies in making the application. A copy of the application shall be furnished to the person to be certified.

(3) If the ~~approved~~ designated treatment facility administrator or his or her authorized designee approves the application, the person shall be certified, evaluated, and treated for a period not to exceed five days. The person shall be brought to the facility by a peace officer, the emergency service patrol, or any interested person. If necessary, the court may be contacted to issue an order to the police or sheriff's department to transport the person to the facility.

(4) If the approved treatment facility administrator or his or her authorized designee determines that the application fails to sustain the grounds for an emergency hold commitment as set forth in subsection (1) of this section, the ~~commitment~~ emergency hold shall be refused and the person detained immediately released, and the person shall be encouraged to seek voluntary treatment if appropriate.

(5) When the administrator determines that the grounds for an emergency hold commitment no longer exist, he or she shall discharge the person certified under this section. The person being discharged shall be offered the opportunity to enroll in voluntary treatment. A person certified under this section may not be detained in any treatment facility for more than five days; except that a person may be detained for longer than five days at the approved treatment facility if, in that period of time, a ~~petition for involuntary commitment~~ notice of certification for short-term treatment has been filed pursuant to §27-81-112. ~~A person may not be detained longer than ten days after the date of filing of the petition for involuntary commitment.~~

(6) Whenever a person is involuntarily detained pursuant to this section, he or she shall immediately be advised by the facility administrator or his or her authorized designee, both orally and in writing, of his or her right to challenge such detention by application to the courts for a writ of habeas corpus, to be represented by counsel at every stage of any proceedings relating to his or her ~~commitment~~ certification and to have counsel appointed by the Court or provided by the Court if he or she wants the assistance of counsel and is unable to obtain counsel.

§27-81-113 – Involuntary short-term and extended short ~~commitment~~ certification of person who misuses substances or is under the influence of substances.

(1) If a person is detained under §27-81-111, he or she may be ~~committed~~ certified for substance misuse treatment for a period not to exceed three months under the following conditions:

(a) The professional person at the designated facility providing care and treatment under the emergency commitment has analyzed the person's condition and found that the person is either misuses substances or is under the influence of substances and as a result, is a danger to self or others or gravely disabled;

- (b) The person has been advised of the availability of voluntary treatment but has not accepted voluntary treatment; or*
- (c) The person has been advised of the availability of voluntary treatment and has accepted voluntary treatment but reasonable grounds exist to believe that the person will not remain in voluntary treatment, as evidenced by past behaviors.*
- (d) The facility providing short-term treatment has been designated by the executive director of the Colorado Department of Human Services to provide such treatment.*

(2) The notice of certification for short-term treatment must be signed by a professional person on the staff of the evaluation facility who participated in the evaluation and shall state facts sufficient to establish reasonable grounds to believe that the person is under the influence of substances or misuses substances and as a result are a danger to self or others and/or gravely disabled. The notice of short-term certification shall be filed with the court within forty-eight hours, excluding Saturdays, Sundays and court holidays, of the date and time of certification. The notice of certification shall be filed in the county in which the respondent resides or where the respondent was physically present when taken into protective custody and transported to the designated facility.

(3) Within twenty-four hours of the certification, copies of the certification including the professional person's statement of fact, shall be personally delivered to the respondent, and a copy shall be kept by the designated facility as part of the respondent's record. The respondent shall also be asked to designate one other person whom he or she wishes to be informed regarding the certification. If he or she is incapable of making such a designation at the time that the notice of certification is delivered to the respondent, he or she shall be asked to designate such person as soon as he or she is capable of designating such person. In addition to the copy of the certification, the respondent shall be given a written notice that a hearing upon his or her certification for short-term treatment may be had before the court upon written request directed to the court where the notice of certification was filed.

(4) Upon certification of the respondent, the facility designated for short-term treatment shall have custody of the respondent.

(5) Whenever a notice of certification is filed with the court, the court, if it has not already done so under 27-81-111, shall forthwith appoint an attorney to represent the respondent. The court shall determine whether the respondent is able to afford an attorney. If the respondent meets indigency guidelines and cannot afford an attorney, the court shall appoint counsel, either from the legal services program operating in the jurisdiction or private counsel to represent the respondent. The attorney representing the respondent shall be provided with a copy of the certification immediately upon appointment. Waiver of counsel must be knowingly and intelligently made in writing and filed with the court by respondent. In the event that a respondent who is able to afford an attorney fails to pay the appointed counsel, such court-appointed counsel, upon application to the court, and after appropriate notice and hearing, may obtain a judgment for reasonable attorney fees against the respondent or person making request for such counsel or both the respondent and such person.

(6) The respondent subject to certification for short-term treatment or his or her attorney may at any time file a written request that the certification for short-term treatment or the treatment be reviewed by the court or that the treatment be on an outpatient basis. If review is requested, the court shall hear the matter within ten days after the request, and the court shall give notice to the respondent and his or her attorney and the certifying and treating professional person of the time and place thereof. The hearing shall be held in accordance with section 27-81-. At the conclusion of the hearing, the court may enter or confirm the certification for short-term treatment, discharge the respondent, or enter any other appropriate order, subject to available appropriations.
