Course of Current Hospitalization:

The court concurred with Dr. Engel's opinion regarding Ms. Shomo's incompetency, and she was ordered to receive inpatient competency restoration treatment on 08/30/2018. On 11/14/2018, she was admitted at CMHIP. During her admission, she

Now, take a looksky at the first forced medication affidavit:

Dated: November 13th, 2018

MY COMMISSION EXPIRES SEPTEMBER 18, 2020

Next, note the date of Hoffman's signature: 11/12/2018. The 2 is handwritten, over a typed 1.

The date of the notary seal is 11/13/2018.

Am I delusional for thinking both dates are before 11/14/2018.

I mean, even if I count on my fingers, 11, 12, and 13, all the dates on the affidavit, are lower than 14, and if I recall correctly numbers go up and time goes forward.

Here is what had happened, pursuant to the Sworn statement of Dr. Hoffman, as of that date, the 11th, when it was typed, but then the 12th, as corrected handwritten, and then also notarized as of the 13th, prior to admit on the 14th per the competency evaluator's report:

...incompetent to proceed with charges of assault menacing, phone harassment, contacting a protected party, all dating from Spring 2018. She currently resides on maximum security ward C-2. She is diagnosed with schizoaffective disorder, bipolar type.

- 5) In affiant's opinion, the patient's mental illness is interfering with her ability to make rational decisions concerning her treatment. The respondent is incompetent to effectively participate in the treatment decisions; her judgement and ability to think clearly are impaired. Treatment by antipsychotic medication is necessary to prevent the significant and likely long-term deterioration in the respondent's mental condition and to prevent the likelihood of the respondent causing serious harm to others in the institution.

So, we have an affidavit testifying to a fact, that wasn't true, and an expert witness's judgement formed based on an evaluation he could not have physically performed.

Patient was active with peers and staff in dayhall. She enjoys talking about "9/11 conspiracy" in terms of her "testimony." She also participated in karaoke but was redirected for her choice in music as the lyrics stated, "kill the jews, hitler's pride," etc. Patient was educated on the inappropriateness of her choice and argued her point to continue playing the song stating, "It winds up with a good message in the end." She did concede to staff direction and has been participatory in programming to include dancing in the dayhall to the Cupid Shuffle and Macarena. Happy affect. Continuing to monitor.

Umm, that song was "Nakam" by Daniel Kahn and the Painted Bird

Rule of law access by your detainees is next. We just covered a broad but not exhaustive list of misconduct I pegged at CMHIP and the implications for any proposed investigation in your fax machine.

Now, I'd like to remind you of one other thing, and, again, I do not hold this against you. I'd have shut my ass up, too. It's a _mental hospital_, hell it's even _forensic_.

But, I always did like Karaoke. I understand they could barely afford the machine. But little reliefs like this really help the patients out.

Of course, I used my mic time to shove shit up their asses. Whatever it takes? Lawyers guns and money? Getting the drift? Check my karaoke history. You probably keep better track than outbound legal mail.

So, at this time I will point out, you let me get to the first line of the chorus of this song before you pulled the fucking plug. The chorus.

That is all.

Aubrey – Let's start this way, via email, we can catch up by phone later.

So, first of all, you are already Bat Mitzvah – that is, you are an adult, and you are Jewish. You count in a minyan, and you are part of the Jewish community.

Another way of looking at the Bat Mitzvah “occasion,” is seeing Bat Mitzvah is a public marking of Jewish coming of age. For folks doing Bat Mitzvah later in life, it's kind of an affirmation of Jewish identity, “I am here, I am part of this community.” As a youth, it's often accompanied by an exhibition of competency in ritual – having an aliya and saying the blessings at the Torah, and/or reading from the Torah, and/or leading the congregation in prayer. And it can be the same for an adult.

And what we do is VERY flexible – Here are a few thoughts:

you could recite the blessing in Hebrew at the Torah on a Saturday morning or (for a more intimate gathering of folks) at a Saturday afternoon service (we typically have Saturday afternoon services at 5:45 PM), you could invite some friends/ they could throw candy at you (or not), and call it a day. And then you can invite friends out to celebrate.

In fact, you could skip the entire synagogue piece, just have the celebration, and at that celebration, give a talk about Torah and Judasim, and about why you are celebrating this moment in your Jewish life. (That's actually what the Orthodox and Habad do – they don't have women do things in synagogue).

Back to the synagogue idea.... You could learn to chant a Torah reading (again, on Shabbat afternoon or Shabbat morning services).

How is your Hebrew? And.... Can you sing?

Your thoughts? How did you imagine this?

2:49 it's very um odd because it will talk

Narrative:

Disclaimer: This report is a synopsis of this investigation and is not meant to provide a complete accounting of every detail or circumstance. This report may include information regarding officer perceptions that may not have been captured in associated body-worn camera (BWC) footage. To the best of my knowledge, BWC recordings of the events described in this report were conducted in accordance with CRS 24-31-902 and any lack of footage was not the result of intentional "tampering" as defined in CRS 24-31-901 (6). BWC was not activated or was muted in accordance with this statute including when necessary to avoid recording personal information that is not case related; when working on an unrelated assignment; when there is a long break in the incident; and in administrative, tactical, and management discussions when civilians were not present. BWC also may not have been activated when an interaction with the public was recorded by other means. BWC may not be activated in the specific circumstance of officers working in jail that has functioning video cameras except when jail peace officers are separately required to activate BWC for tasks requiring an anticipated use of force.

Re: AAUW Supports SB012—Compensable Losses for Tribal Members

Dear Committee Members:

The American Association of University Women (AAUW) is one of the oldest women's organizations in the country, empowering women since 1881. The mission of AAUW is to advance equity for women and girls through research, education and advocacy. More than 700 community leaders are members of AAUW branches around Colorado.

Colorado has made significant progress over the past few years in recognizing, and making long-overdue apologies for, the victimization of women and girls that continues to have a generational impact on our Native American community. It is well past time to honor American Indian cultures, especially in times of tragedy. SB012 expands the "Colorado Crime Victim Compensation Act" to allow tribal members to receive compensation for expenses, including travel, related to traditional Native American healing ceremonies and practices, in addition to existing provisions for funeral, burial, medical care, and mental health counseling.

For these reasons, AAUW of Colorado strongly supports SB012 and requests your YES vote in committee and throughout the process of becoming law.

Respectfully submitted,
