

House Judiciary

04/28/2026

SB26-158 Youthful Offender Early Parole Procedure

Typed Text of Testimony Submitted

Name, Position, Representing	Typed Text of Testimony
Rosalie Martinez For themselves	Hello, my name is Rosie Martinez, and I would like to provide you all with some information to support passing SB26-158. My cousin Daniel and others who are in the JAYCAP program. They were selected to participate in the JAYCAP program. You see, they all had to submit an application to be considered and had to meet the criteria. This is like submitting a job application in our world. If selected, they now move to the next round, in which they did just that and have completed all the requirements to be considered for early Parole release. They have been waiting for over 2 years for the Governor to review the Department of Corrections' release recommendations. The Parole board unanimously approved Daniel's release 7 out of 7. This is a prime example of the impact the JAYCAP program has had. Here is some additional insight. As my cousin stated in his portfolio, he spoke about a stone and the ripple it has when thrown into a lake, representing the hurt caused to so many. The pain goes far past what the eye can see. But we never ever talk about that stone and whatever becomes of it. It usually sinks to the bottom of the lake, where it is never heard from again. Prison was and is the bottom of the lake, but it has also allowed him the opportunity to rise and redeem himself by making better choices and decisions for what he wants in life, along with the others. As everyone has had to seek deep within themselves and determination to move forward. As their past will always be with them, they have found a way to tuck it away, but never forget the pain this has caused the families and friends of the victims. The ultimate price they all had to endure during the time of incarceration for the crimes committed. They are not the same person when they entered behind the concrete walls. They have had time to reflect on the past and strive to become mentors, leaders, and most importantly, true to themselves. I can honestly say I have seen them truly wanting to move forward and create new memories with their loved ones in the future. We all continue to support them and will stand by their side every day until we can be reunited. Thank you for allowing me the time to speak on behalf of my family.
Tom Raynes	CDAC opposes this change to the law. The JCAP program was intentionally designed to have the Governor act as the final decision

Against Colorado District Attorneys Council	maker. This "backstop" provision was a heavily debated and critical issue to victims groups and DAs when the bill passed in 2016. SB 158 essentially lets the Governor off the hook - no decision required. The sixty day requirement is a good change, but letting a decision just default to the parole board recommendation by failing to act is an abdication of duty. Public officials get elected to make the tough decisions as leaders. If they wont make them - why are they there.
--	---

House Judiciary

04/28/2026 Upon Adjournment

SB26-158 Youthful Offender Early Parole Procedure

Typed Text of Testimony Submitted

Name, Position, Representing	Typed Text of Testimony
Tom Raynes Against Colorado District Attorneys Council	CDAC opposes this change to the law. The JCAP program was intentionally designed to have the Governor act as the final decision maker. This "backstop" provision was a heavily debated and critical issue to victims groups and DAs when the bill passed in 2016. SB 158 essentially lets the Governor off the hook - no decision required. The sixty day requirement is a good change, but letting a decision just default to the parole board recommendation by failing to act is an abdication of duty. Public officials get elected to make the tough decisions as leaders. If they wont make them - why are they there.
Rosalie Martinez For themselves	Hello, my name is Rosie Martinez, and I would like to provide you all with some information to support passing SB26-158. My cousin Daniel and others who are in the JAYCAP program. They were selected to participate in the JAYCAP program. You see, they all had to submit an application to be considered and had to meet the criteria. This is like submitting a job application in our world. If selected, they now move to the next round, in which they did just that and have completed all the requirements to be considered for early Parole release. They have been waiting for over 2 years for the Governor to review the Department of Corrections' release recommendations. The Parole board unanimously approved Daniel's release 7 out of 7. This is a prime example of the impact the JAYCAP program has had. Here is some additional insight. As my cousin stated in his portfolio, he spoke about a stone and the ripple it has when thrown into a lake, representing the hurt caused to so many. The pain goes far past what the eye can see. But we never ever talk about that stone and whatever becomes of it. It usually sinks to the bottom of the lake, where it is never heard from again. Prison

	was and is the bottom of the lake, but it has also allowed him the opportunity to rise and redeem himself by making better choices and decisions for what he wants in life, along with the others. As everyone has had to seek deep within themselves and determination to move forward. As their past will always be with them, they have found a way to tuck it away, but never forget the pain this has caused the families and friends of the victims. The ultimate price they all had to endure during the time of incarceration for the crimes committed. They are not the same person when they entered behind the concrete walls. They have had time to reflect on the past and strive to become mentors, leaders, and most importantly, true to themselves. I can honestly say I have seen them truly wanting to move forward and create new memories with their loved ones in the future. We all continue to support them and will stand by their side every day until we can be reunited. Thank you for allowing me the time to speak on behalf of my family.
--	--